

GLOBAL CONVERGENCE

OF RESISTANCES TO CORPORATE POWER

RECLAIMING PEOPLES SOVEREIGNTY

World Social Forum 24–28 March 2015 / Tunisia

Open call to

Collectively Build a Global Movement to Dismantle the Power of Transnational Corporations and Stop Impunity!

In March 2015, social movements from around the world will meet in the World Social Forum in Tunisia to exchange on existing resistances, debate alternatives, and strategize mobilizations to confront different aspects of corporate-led globalization.

Transnational Corporations (TNCs) are a key driving force of this unjust and unsustainable system, operating to appropriate our destinies, natural and cultural heritage, dismantle public services, destroy the commons and endanger food sovereignty in every corner of the planet. In many cases, TNCs are also involved in assassinations, persecutions and threats against communities resisting their actions and operations. TNCs have captured democratic decision-making and are rendering sovereignty meaningless while marginalizing governments (often complicit) in their responsibility to place peoples rights before corporate profits.

Social movements, peasants, trade unionists, women, indigenous peoples, environmentalists, migrants, experts, activists and affected communities are the paramount political subjects of the counterpower that is sowing alternative paradigms. Our resistances to TNCs articulate diverse alternative world projects in many varied spheres. Our struggles and practices are reaffirming and legitimating the existence of diverse and potent ways of living. We are reclaiming and building a world which the Zapatistas call "a world where there are many worlds".

These diverse world projects, practices and alternatives are being linked at regional and global levels and cross fertilisation is also being made across various movements and networks. And there is a continuous need to intensify these alliances for transformative action and to achieve significant convergence of counterpower to the corporate-led paradigm.

Drawing from intense confrontations with corporate power, in the areas of Water, Food, Land, Territories and the Commons, Work, Investments and Trade, Economy and Finance, Democracy and Corporate capture, the Global Convergence of Resistances to Corporate Power is an open invitation to contribute to and participate in the struggles that aim to dismantle corporate power, end impunity, and create the conditions to reclaim peoples sovereignty and ensure the commons of humanity.
